The Italian Association of History of Engineering, the National Council of Engineers, the School of Polytechnic and Basic Sciences of the University of Naples Federico II, the Interdepartmental Centre of Engineering for Cultural Heritage of University of Napoli Federico II and the Councils of Engineers of Napoli and Salerno organize the 4th International Conference of History of Engineering to be held in the spring of 2020 in Naples.

GOALS

The Conference aims to promote the knowledge of Engineering History since its ancient origins, its general aspects and those particular episodes that have marked its path along the centuries. A second key objective is promoting a broad scientific debate on the development of the history of this branch of knowledge, with the direct contribution of engineers and the involvement of scholars of engineering, historians, architects and archivists.

TOPICS

History of scientific and technological research
History of building construction, public works and infrastructures
Technical and scientific aspects of industry and industrialization
Evolution of the profession and role of engineering in society (from construction engineering to systems engineering)
Evolution of the relationship between the engineers and the institutions
Engineers, cultural heritage and the environment.
